

Complimentary Dinner Event

Hot Topics in Canine & Feline Infectious Diseases

Infectious diseases continue to pose serious—and sometimes life-threatening—risks to companion animals, while others can lead to chronic illness or zoonotic concerns that affect both pets and people. From parvovirus and leptospirosis to Lyme disease, rabies, and emerging respiratory infections, staying current is essential for today's veterinary teams.

This live dinner program delivers timely, practice-ready insights into today's infectious disease “hot topics,” highlighting key clinical findings you can apply immediately. Attendees will receive one hour of RACE CE.

Featured Speaker | Michael Lappin, DVM, PhD, DACVIM (SAIM)

Dr. Michael Lappin earned his DVM at Oklahoma State University and completed a residency and PhD in Parasitology at the University of Georgia. He is the Kenneth W. Smith Professor in Small Animal Clinical Veterinary Medicine at Colorado State University and is the director of the “Center for Companion Animal Studies”. He is also chair of WSAVA One Health Committee.

Dinner Meeting Details

Thu, July 30, 2026

6:30 PM - Registration

7:00 PM - Dinner

Meeting Venue

The Capital Grille

101 S Hanley Rd Ste 120, Clayton, MO 63105

Register to Attend

Due to limited venue space, doctors only, please